The Department of Mathematics at the University of Scholastica

Offers the M.S. degree and the Ph.D. in several areas of pure and applied mathematics.

The University of Scholastica offers graduate students the ability to receive tuition waivers and teaching assistantships, which carry a stipend of $1 billion a year. In return students teach 20 labs per week.

Students who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents and will be undergraduates in the fall of 2009 are eligible to apply.

Preference will be given to applications received by February 31.
