

CMJ Editor

The Mathematical Association of America seeks to identify candidates to succeed Dominic Klyve as editor of The College Mathematics Journal when his term expires in December 2023. The position requires a six-year commitment, the first transitional year as editor-elect, and the remaining five years as editor.

Published five times a year in January, March, May, September, and November, The College Mathematics Journal is an international, peer-reviewed journal publishing high-quality exposition on mathematical topics related to the undergraduate curriculum. The journal is known for its engaging writing on new mathematics or new perspectives on known mathematics, including historical perspectives, pedagogical notes, and open questions.

Along with having significant writing and/or editorial experience, the ideal candidate will have a vision for the journal and a wide range of skills, including organization, time-management, delegation, and leadership. In addition, the most successful applicants will also have exceptional editorial, communication, and interpersonal skills. Applicants should have broad mathematical interests, including the culture, history, and applications of mathematics. Experience with journal publication processes is helpful but not necessary. The editor will communicate with and lead an editorial board and effectively coordinate both the submission and production procedures.

Working in cooperation with the MAA's Electronic Production and Publishing Manager and MAA's Journals Managing Editor, the editor will create timely issues of the highest quality that advance the understanding of mathematics and its impact on our world while contributing to the MAA's longstanding commitment to expository excellence.

The creativity and vision required to lead The College Mathematics Journal, together with the broad engagement with authors and readers from across the mathematical community, make this a uniquely rewarding professional opportunity. Duties extend throughout the year with a time commitment of roughly two days per week. Support, largely in the form of course release time and travel reimbursements, is provided for the six-year period.

Applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, the names of three references, and a statement of experience and interest containing a vision and ideas about the journal. Nominations are welcome. Review of applicants will begin March 1, 2022, with appointment as editor-elect to commence on January 1, 2023. The five-year editorial term runs January 1, 2024 – December 31, 2028. Please send inquiries, nominations, and applications to hr@maa.org.
