A sudoku-type array is a special Latin square. As such, it can be interpreted as a type of experimental design, that lies between designs formed from a Latin square and designs formed from two orthogonal Latin squares. (Received September 27, 2006)