In this talk, we will show how biology and knot theory can be combined. An elementary knot or link invariant, Fox coloring, is utilized in modeling of protein-DNA binding and interactions such as recombination and transposition. (Received August 04, 2006)