In the Spring of 2010, I taught our introduction to proofs class using a fully inquiry based technique. Final exams scores from common questions on mathematical induction were compared. One of the classes was taught using a lecture method while the other was taught using an inquiry based method. This talk will discuss the results. (Received September 17, 2010)